

News Update (April 2009)

Coating Systems has been growing steadily over the past number of years, and has recently achieved another milestone in its development, with one customer rewarding our service and support with a repeat order for a TechniCota 400 (350kg) machine.

The pharmaceutical industry is a very demanding market and such confidence can only be attributed to our commitment to quality and service support.

Other developments such as the CSI Mk III nozzle have also expanded our customer base.

In these challenging times, value for money is very important but only if quality is maintained. CSI have always offered quality products at an affordable price and will continue to do so.

Innovations such as our heat recovery systems give considerable energy savings, and machine optimisation saves expensive coating material. All these help reduce the cost of ownership.

But we are not sitting back; development of new products is always taking place, so keep watching this space.
